

Native budworm Southern region

Moths typically migrate from inland Australia to south eastern cropping regions in late winter/spring

Timely monitoring of susceptible crops is critical and should continue until harvest

Critical monitoring period for this pest - Consider pheromone trapping to detect immigration of moths

Optimal spray timing - Consider Bt or NPV to control small (<7mm) larvae, particularly if aphids are present